

ILLINOIS ASSEMBLY FACES BAD LEGISLATIVE JAM

INSPECTION OF COUNTY HOME BY BOARD WEDNESDAYEnjoyed Dinner and Day
at Beautiful County Farm

The members of the Board of Supervisors of Lee County were guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Fry, Superintendent and Matron of the Lee County farm, in the annual inspection of the home by the Supervisors.

The ideal June day, the pleasant ride to the home nestling like a gem in the lovely grounds, the fine hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Fry, and the delicious dinner, all combined in making this one of the most enjoyable visits to the County Home in the history of the Board. Thirty-one were seated at the several tables, decorated with poonies.

After the excellent dinner, which was catered by Mrs. Eva Mack and Miss Hattie Cook, and served by Mrs. Clark Hess, Miss Lucille Welch and Miss Mary Hooker and Donald Rosecrans, the annual inspection of the home, buildings, and grounds, took place, following the rising vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Fry for the splendid dinner.

Neatness and order were everywhere apparent, the sunrooms were bright with blooming plants, there were cheerful magazines and comfortable rockers, in both the men's and women's apartments. There are now thirty wards of the county, some of them feeble with age, who receive the care of the Superintendent and the Matron.

Interested in Barn
The members of the board were especially interested in the barn, which is modern in every respect and completely equipped, and is in fine condition. Of special interest also was the new tile machine shed, and the improved chicken house, which is a great improvement. There are just a couple of unsightly old sheds on the farm, which are a detriment to the new structures and which will not doubt be removed soon. A new garage is needed at the county farm and with this addition and the raising of the sheds, a great improvement will be made and the buildings will be complete.

The Lee County farm now has a fine herd of high grade Holstein cattle, fifteen head, and a very fine lot of Duroc Jersey hogs, 125 in all, one which is a ton litter in excellent condition. Then there are two pairs of well-kept, high stepping horses, and seven or eight hundred chickens, and a good many geese on the place. Among the things that need especially mention are the crops which are growing on the Lee County Home farm, including corn, oats, potatoes, cabbage, and all other vegetables, such as are needed upon a farm of this kind.

Lee County Farm now has a new fence all around it and one worthy of mention is the cemetery fence, a needed improvement. New fruit trees have been planted and small fruits and berries put out.

Garden and Lawn Pretty
The garden and lawn at the home are beautiful, the white trellises in the garden, and the lily pool in the gold fish pond, being features of much interest. Another lily pool in the side yard is also much admired.

The garden is a joy to the flower lover. To the left is a mound of Rose Morn petunias, which will, in a few weeks be laden with flowers. Then the snap dragons in the rose and cream shades; columbines in red, and cream and blue and yellow. A bed of deep red poppies have just finished their most luxuriant blooming. A little farther down the path is a cluster of old fashioned yellow bell flowers and on turning to come back, at the left of the road, are many beautiful peonies. Here is a bed of cosmos which will shortly be at its best and there a bed of salvia to add its beautiful flaming scarlet flower in the late summer and fall. Near the front trellis are a number of choice roses, delicate yellow shading to cream and a white rose and a red rose. It is impossible to name all the lovely plants in the garden. Dixon people should drive out to the farm and view them, look the home over and receive the hearty welcome of Mr. and Mrs. Fry.

All members of the Board yesterday praised the excellent way in which the county's property was supervised. Lee County may well be proud of its home.

President Back Home:
Pleased With His Trip
Washington, June 10—(AP)—President Coolidge returned to Washington today from Minnesota where he attended the Norse-American celebration.

The President appeared in fine spirits. He was pleased with the trip as a whole. Last night motion pictures of events at the Minnesota State Fair Ground on Monday, when he was cheered by a great throng, were shown aboard the train.

Returning to the White House, Mr. Coolidge decided to go immediately to his office to resume the work he laid aside on leaving.

CLOUDBURST AT ROCHESTER IS
CAUSE DAMAGEFlood Feared in Minnesota City After Severe Storm

Rochester, Minn., June 11—(AP)—Damage totaling several thousands of dollars was caused here today by a cloudburst and hail storm when more than an inch and a half of rain fell between 4 and 7 o'clock. The city was without lights and power today, the power plant machinery being under four feet of water. Every basement in the business section was flooded.

The Zumbro river and its tributaries were rising this morning and a flood was feared.

Julius Asen, county farm bureau agent, left on an inspection to estimate the damage caused to crops by the hail. It will total thousands of dollars, he said. The force of the hail storm could be seen in the city where trees were stripped of their foliage. The ground at one time was covered with two inches of hail in town. The cloudburst was accompanied by a spectacular electrical display. At Rochester's new tourist camp, twenty seven camping parties were driven from the grounds before dawn. The stream running past the tourist camp normally 75 feet wide, was 1,000 feet wide at 8 o'clock.

Dog Meat Still Eaten

in Parts of Germany
Berlin, June 11—(AP)—Dog meat is still an article of human diet in Germany, and the Berlin chief of police has decreed that the inspection regulations governing other meat shall apply in the future to this article.

Consumption of dog meat has decreased markedly in Berlin since the war, but it still flourishes in Saxony. The price for a fat dog varies from 2 to 10 marks and there is an additional slaughter tax of 2 marks 20 pfennigs.

CONTRACTOR WAS FATALLY HURT IN
SUBLETTE MISHAPCharles Larabee, Mendota,
Crushed Under His Automobile

Charles Larabee, prominent contractor residing in Mendota, died at the Amboy hospital last evening about 6:30, death resulting from injuries sustained in an automobile accident on route two about two miles north of Sublette. The Mendota contractor, who is building the septic plant at Amboy, was on his way home in a Willys-Knight roadster with one of his employees as a passenger. About two miles north of Sublette, the driver of the car apparently lost control of the machine which turned completely over in a deep ditch.

Mr. Larabee was removed from the wreckage and hurried to the Amboy hospital, where he died before he could be placed in bed. Coroner F. M. Barker conducted an inquest over the remains this morning, the jury returning a verdict of accidental death. The remains were taken to his home in Mendota.

The contractor has built several buildings in Amboy in recent years and was well known in this section of the country. He is survived by his wife and seven children residing in Mendota.

The accident occurred about 6 o'clock last evening at a point where a deep ditch is on the side of the new paving. The second passenger in the machine escaped uninjured. The car was badly damaged. Examination of the contractor's body by physicians disclosed several injuries, the lungs having been punctured by fractured ribs, the right shoulder broken and many other cuts and bruises about the head and body.

Asked Judge Leech to Hear Case in Ogle Co.

Judge William L. Leech of the county court, has been asked to hear a case in the Ogle county court, a change of venue having been taken from County Judge Leon Zick. The proceeding is an unusual one in this section of the state and Judge Leech has declined to hear the case because of the amount of business pending before him.

William Shaw of Polo was arrested several days ago on a charge of possessing and transporting intoxicating liquor. Sheriff S. N. Dodson and Deputy George Brando effected the arrest as he drove into Polo. The defendant retained Attorney R. M. Brand of Polo to represent him and it is alleged that when a jail sentence and fine was hinted at, the change of venue from Judge Zick was asked for and an effort to have the Lee county judge hear the case was made.

With the board of supervisors in session, the annual tax sale and the hearing and objections to taxes, coupled with the regular June term of the county court and jury trials, Judge Leech has notified State's Attorney Martin V. Peterman of Ogle county and the defendant's attorney that he will not be able to go to Oregon and sit in the case. It is expected that County Judge Carpenter of Rockford will be called in to decide Shaw's fate.

Peach Supply Increases:

Prices Also Follow Suit
Chicago, June 11—(AP)—Peach supplies are increasing but prices are higher than a week ago. Arrivals have thus far been unable to catch up with demand notwithstanding receipts have been larger than at this time last year.

The choice variety known as Carmans have started moving from Georgia with estimated shipments of 600 carloads in prospect, and with an earlier celebrated sort, the Hileys, expected to start within a week, according to a report issued here today by the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Dixie Queens and Red Birls also alluring kinds of peaches from the south, are meanwhile being marketed. Carmans are selling wholesale at $3.25 to $4 per six-basket carrier in northern city markets.

Former Sterling Man is Dead in Monrovia, Calif.

Chicago, June 11—(AP)—Funeral services for Herbert A. Auning, who was one of the vice presidents of the John V. Farwell Company and well known in the wholesale drygoods field, will be held on Monday at Sterling, Illinois. He died June 9 in Monrovia, California where he and his family moved last year when he was retired from active duties. He was a native of England and started with the Farwell Company as clerk and stock boy in 1882.

Washington, June 11—(AP)—President Coolidge has suggested to the Shipping Board that it delegate completely to the Fleet Corporation, the authority for negotiating sales of ships and lines, reserving to itself final approval or rejection of the contracts.

SUPERVISORS LET THEIR ROOM FOR
CLINIC PURPOSESApplication of County Tuberculosis Assn.
Granted Today

The county building committee presented a report at this morning's session of the board of supervisors, in which they recommended that the supervisor's room in the court house be tendered for the purpose of holding tuberculosis clinics by the Lee County Tuberculosis Sanatorium board of directors. Supervisor Bauer of Hamilton opposed the report and added that there was a sufficient amount of money available in the tuberculosis fund to permit the directors to erect a building suitable for this purpose on their property east of the city.

Supervisor Sproul of Dixon, a member of the buildings committee, defended the report. He told the board that clinics had been held in churches and schools in the county and were at present being conducted in the high school at Ashton. "It is a most worthy cause for the relief of suffering humanity and the court house is so located as to make it a highly desirable place for the holding of these clinics."

When the vote on the report was taken, there was no opposition to the measure.

Auditor Made Report.
The reports of County Auditor Olaf V. Rees, who has completed his audit in the offices of the circuit clerk, the county clerk, the county superintendent of schools and the state's attorney's office were read to the board. The fees and salaries committee presented a report fixing the salaries of members of the board of review at $5 per day with mileage of ten cents per mile one way each week and $5 per day for a clerk of the board. This report was adopted.

The buildings committee recommended the placing of the contract for the furnishing of coal for the court house, jail and county home with the firm of J. P. McIntyre & Son of this city for the coming year.

The road and bridge committee presented two reports granting the petitions of the Illinois Northern Utilities company to erect transmission lines in Alto and Nelson townships.

STRICKEN WED.Charles Randall Died
at Son's Home on Chicago Road

Charles Randall, retired veteran engineer of the Illinois Central, died suddenly at the home of his son, William Randall, 1024 Chicago road yesterday afternoon about 2:30. He had suffered two attacks during the day, the first having been seized with the first attack in the afternoon and expired while walking on the cement pavement in front of his home. At this time he fell to the pavement and sustained slight cuts and bruises and was in an unconscious condition when found by his daughter-in-law, who with the assistance of tourists, carried him into his home.

He regained consciousness and was apparently recovering his strength after having been attended by a physician, when he was seized with a second attack in the afternoon and expired. Coroner F. M. Barker conducted an inquest at the Preston mortuary yesterday afternoon at 4:30, a verdict of death due to heart failure and senility being returned by the jury.

Mr. Randall was born in Thurington, England, March 30th, 1833 and had made his home with his son in this city for the past 23 years. Funeral services will be conducted from the Preston chapel tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Brandt will officiating and with interment in the Prairie Repose cemetery at Amboy.

The other planes, NA-1 and NA-2 arrived yesterday. Two of the planes will be taken to the Navy Yard and placed aboard Commander MacMillan's ship, the Peary, while the third will be flown from Boston to Wisconsin next Wednesday when the Peary sails for that point.

SHEPHERD JURY
SECURED; TRIAL
PROCEEDS TODAYOpening Statements and Some Evidence
Were Expected

Chicago, June 11—(AP)—The trial of William D. Shepherd for the murder of his millionaire foster-son, William N. McClintock, entered its second stage today, the weary grind of jury selection ended after three weeks and three days of effort.

Opening argument and placing of a few state witnesses on the stand constituted the program for today.

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the municipal court has been announced as the state's first witness. It was he who instigated the inquiry into McClintock's death last December.

When court opened 35 minutes after the hour set, William S. Stewart, chief of defense counsel, sought to have the state's outline of its case stripped of any reference to the deaths of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock and Dr. Oscar Olson or autopsies over them, but State's Attorney Crowe successfully resisted the effort, Judge Lynch ruling that it would be proper to object if the state sought to introduce anything not allied with the death of young McClintock, but allied with what has been charged by Judge Olson was a plot by Shepherd to obtain the McClintock $1,000,000 estate by slaying those who stood between him and it. Thereupon the state's attorney began the opening statement.

Associated Press Chief

Honored by Knox College
Galesburg, Ill., June 11—(AP)—Melville E. Stone, Counselor of the Associated Press and for 25 years its general manager, was given the degree of Doctor of Laws here Wednesday at Knox College, where eighty years ago his mother and father met for the first time as students.

It was in 1843 that Elijah Stone of Brunswick, Ill., and Sophia Creighton of Canton, Ill., were registered in the Knox academy. They married three years later. Today, before a large graduating class and commencement crowds, Dr. Charles E. McKinley, Acting President of Knox, bestowed the degree of LL. D. on their son as one who has contributed greatly to modern journalism.

"Melville E. Stone," journalist, editor, author, founder of one of America's greatest dailies and head for many years of its greatest news-gathering agency," Dr. McKinley said in bestowing the degree, "two claim you today as a son of Knox in that your father and mother first met as students here in these early days before the College had ever had a commencement or a graduate; and by vote and direction of the Board of Trustees I confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws and admit you to all the privileges, honors and dignities which here and elsewhere pertain to that degree."

Mr. Stone, in receiving the degree from Knox College, takes his place with Abraham Lincoln and many others on the list of honorary alumni associated with the traditions of Knox.

Nachusa Case Will be

Tried Here on Tuesday
Z. K. Hartson and D.W. Byers, North western employees at Nachusa, who were arrested Tuesday on warrants sworn out by Mrs. Hieson who charged Hartson with threatening her life and that Byers' dog was killing her chickens, state that the charges that appeared in Wednesday's Telegraph were exaggerated. Regarding the attack on Gus Kohl, former constable in Nachusa, they say that although Kohl was struck, he was not knocked down in the street, and they also state that he was struck after approving their case without invitation. The case, which will be heard in Judge Gannon's court in Dixon, was continued until Tuesday of next week and will be thrashed out at that time.

I. N. U. is Rebuilding

Power Line to Ashton
Ashton—The Illinois Northern Utilities Company is shutting off Ashton's supply of electricity each night shortly before midnight while 11 men are working on the line from Blocher's corner to Ashton. The company is putting in new and heavier lines, the wire being more like a cable, 3-8 of an inch thick, which will better convey the electricity from the substation which will also be less apt to break during a storm. The power is turned on again each morning about six o'clock, so business is not hampered while the men are at work. The men worked several days putting on new cross arms with the high voltage on, and it was a miracle there were no accidents.

Expect Nurses Home to be Completed by Sept.

Work on the new nurses home of the Dixon Public hospital is progressing very satisfactorily, the foundation work being completed and the masonry preparing to start laying brick next week. The management expects the home to be completed and ready for occupancy by Sept. 1, and young ladies who contemplate taking up nursing training should communicate with Miss Mabel A. Young, R. N., superintendent of the hospital and home.

ONE OF WORST IN HISTORY IS
BEFORE HOUSEAll Bills Remaining in Committee are Tabled
Today

Springfield, Ill., June 11—(AP)—The house cleared its decks today for the final dash to the finish of the present legislative session when it laid on the table all house bills remaining in committee.

At the same time it decided to remain in session Friday and to extend the afternoon sessions into the late evening in an effort to move the bills now on the calendar.

The senate held only a perfunctory session and went home. It will come back next Tuesday prepared to hold long session to act on bills passed this week by the house.

When the House convened this morning, it had eight House bills on first reading, thirty-six on second reading and 127 on third reading. At the same time it had ten Senate bills on first reading, 74 on second reading and 47 ready for final action, one of the worst jams in the history of the General Assembly.

Start Voting on Bills.

Having decided to remain Friday but to go home Saturday, after a brisk debate, the House proceeded to the business of calling the roll on House bills. The first passed was an appropriation of $7,520.20 to pay the state's share of a local improvement at Elgin.

Others passed were:

House bill 109 Springer—granting the conservation department authority to acquire state forests which may also be used as parks and appropriate $200,000 for the work.

House bill 78 Fekete—granting probate courts in counties over 70,000 the right to employ court stenographers.

House bill 860 Johnson—Regulating the kind of business which may be done by fire insurance companies.

Governor Signed Ten.

Ten bills were signed today by Governor Small. Included in the number were a bill providing for the appointment of a board of education for the blind to aid blind students in obtaining an education and appropriating $12,000 for the work; the Elrod bill to prevent the summary election of tenants by land lords; the bill appropriating $300,000 as a refund to towns which have constructed hard roads through their corporate limits; another carrying $1,000,000 to build hard roads through cities and towns under 7,500 and a measure providing for the issuance of certificates of registration to optometrists.

Say Winner of Balloon

Race May be Disqualified
Corunna, Spain, June 11—(AP)—It was reported here today that the Belgian, M. Veenstra, pilot of the balloon Prince Leopold, who yesterday was declared winner of the Gordon Bennett Cup balloon race which started from Brussels Sunday night might be disqualified. Reports here said he did not descend on land but came down at sea off the northwestern coast of Spain. It was said to have been in the water six hours and to have been rescued by a passing steamer.

A landing and rescue at sea would disqualify M. Veenstra and would leave the Belgian M. DeMuyter, pilot of the balloon Belgica, as winner.

Three balloons have already been disqualified for landing at sea including the Goodyear III, piloted by the American, Wade T. Van Orman.

Information here was that the Prince Leopold landed ten miles off the Spanish coast when forced down by a sudden squall and that M. Veenstra was rescued with much difficulty by the captain of the steamer Fernand from Vigo. It was a rough sea and during a fog the captain leaped into the water and saved the balloonist after repeated efforts.

Two Killed by Automobiles

in Galesburg in One Day
Galesburg, Ill., June 11—(AP)—Hugh Fitzsimmons, 22, riding a bicycle, was struck by a machine driven by Strawther Givens, of Abingdon late yesterday, receiving injuries from which he died during the night. His death was the second yesterday resulting from auto accidents, Nellie Mitchell, 7, having been killed at noon when struck by a car.

Young Mexican Will Be

Hanged in Peoria Friday
Peoria, Ill., June 11—(AP)—All hope for staying the execution of Jose Ortiz, young Mexican, for the murder of Enriqueta Martinez, young Mexican girl, was lost today when Governor Small refused to grant a reprieve following denial of a petition for a writ of supersedeas by the state supreme court this morning and last minute preparations were made for the execution tomorrow morning in the county jail. It will be the first hanging here in 15 years.

Since train No. 16 which formerly left Dixon at 5:47 A. M. has been taken off on the North Western Railroad and Chicago has changed to daylight saving time a great deal of inconvenience has been caused to the Dixon people. Citizens of Dixon have been compelled to take train No. 14 which leaves Dixon at 4:13 A. M. or train No. 18 which leaves at 6:54 A. M. Both of these trains have been had and arrangements have been made with the North Western to have train No. 8 which leaves Dixon at 6:15 A. M. stop for Chicago passengers arriving at Chicago at 8:50 a. m. (9:50 Chicago daylight saving time). This to become effective on June 15th. In order to use this train it will be necessary to notify the agent by 4:45 A. M., or the night before as he must notify the train crew at Clinton regarding the train. The company does not wish to make this a flag stop as it is necessary to show on their time cards, etc. but are willing to co-operate with the Dixon citizens under the above arrangements.

Volunteer Leaders Among Boys are Badly Needed

Estes Park, Colo., June 11.—(AP)—Problems of training more volunteer leaders among boys and the raising of the standard of requirement for secretarial officers of the Y. M. C. A. confronted the third General Assembly of the association when the delegates plunged into their sessions today.

The conference, which is the first all-American boys' meeting to be held since 1920, will close tomorrow. More volunteer leaders are needed in order to assist in caring for the rapidly expanding boy membership of the association, which now numbers about 250,000, members of the assembly said.

The problem of secretarial standards in one which has been troubling the association for some time, according to officials.

Present Income Tax Law Favors Rich, Sec. Says

Washington, June 11.—The present income tax law discriminates against productive wealth and favors idle wealth, G. B. Winston, under secretary of the treasury declared in a prepared address today before the convention of the National Association of Credit Men and it is because "congress has refused to reach the abuse of having a type of security the ownership of which works an exemption of taxation."

Tax exempt securities now total more than $13,000,000,000 he declared, predicting that the total would reach $15,000,000,000 before any constitutional amendment to change the situation could become effective. The means of tax avoidance available to the wealthy he said, "are so many that to try to close them all by statute would simply put business in a straightjacket."

Earth has not anything to show more fair;
Dull would he be of soul who could pass by
A sight so touching in its majesty;
This city now doth like a garment wear.

The beauty of the morning; silent, bare,
Ships, towers, domes, theaters, and temples,
lie upon the fields, and to the sky,
All bright and glittering in the smokeless air.

Never did the sun more beautifully steep
In his first splendour valley, rock or hill;
Ne'er saw I, never felt, a calm so deep!

The river glideth at his own sweet will;
Dear God! the very houses seem asleep;
And all that mighty heart is lying still!

—William Wordsworth.
HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Cabbage for Salad.
If you lack head lettuce, shredded cabbage makes an excellent foundation for salad.

Salad Dressing.
An excellent salad dressing is made by mashing Roquefort cheese and shining with olive oil and lemon juice.

So Rice Won't Stick.
To prevent rice from sticking to the kettle, grease an inch wide strip around the mouth of the kettle inside.

Glazed Pie Crust.
To give that glazed appearance to pie crust, paint it over with cream or beaten egg, using a pastry brush, and bake in a hot oven.

Potato Removes Stain.
For obstinate stains on steel knives and kitchen spoons, rub with a cut potato dipped in scouring powder.

TO HOLD FLAG DAY MEETING—
The D. A. R. will hold their annual Flag Day meeting with Mrs. William Nixon, 802 East Third street Monday at 2:30. A short program is to be followed by a social afternoon.

There will be no rehearsal of the choir of St. Paul's Lutheran church, this evening.

Menus for a Family

Breakfast—
Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, French toast, maple sirup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—
Luncheon asparagus, lettuce sandwiches, raspberry fluff with sponge cake, milk, tea.

Dinner—
Pot roast of beef with dumplings, creamed new cabbage, radishes, fresh fruits in jelly with whipped cream, caramel cookies, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

The raspberry fluff suggested for the luncheon dessert is made just like strawberry fluff.

While a child under six years of age should not be allowed to eat the dumplings, he may have some of the meat and potatoes, the cabbage, jelly and a cookie with bread and butter and milk.

The asparagus dish planned for luncheon makes an ideal company dish, but is wholesome and suitable for the entire family.

Luncheon Asparagus.
Two bunches asparagus, 1½ cups sifted dried bread crumbs, two-thirds cup hot milk, 4 tablespoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 eggs.

Dry stale bread in a hot oven, browning it slightly. Roll and sift crumbs. Wash and scrape asparagus and steam 15 minutes. Cool and cut the tender part into half-inch lengths. Add milk to crumbs adding more milk if necessary to make moist. The crumbs may absorb more or less milk. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Beat eggs until very light, and add to the crumbs with the prepared asparagus. Turn into a well-buttered mold, cover and steam 45 minutes. Serve with a rich cream sauce.

Attorney Henry S. Dixon and Dr. E. S. Murphy appeared before the board of supervisors at their brief session yesterday afternoon and requested a place in the court house building for the holding of free tuberculosis clinics. The board was told that the Lee County Tuberculosis Sanatorium board of directors have experienced a great deal of difficulty for some months past, in finding a location suitable for the holding the free clinics in Dixon.

Attorney Dixon explained that very good rooms had been furnished in both Ashton and Amboy. He stated that the clinics had been held in the grand jury room at the court house up to a few months ago when the board decided to discontinue allowing the use of any rooms in the court house building to be used for this purpose. The annual report of the board of directors was presented to the board by Dr. E. S. Murphy and the matter of permitting the clinics in the court house was referred to the building committee to report at this session.

McHenry Co. Officials in Court for Alleged Perjury

Woodstock, Ill., June 11.—(AP)—County Judge C. P. Barnes and former State's Attorney V. S. Lumley of McHenry County, were granted a change of venue from the court of Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff last night, following their recent indictment on charges of conspiracy to commit perjury and subornation of perjury.

The indictments are the outgrowth of the sensational Hoy banking trial a year ago, resulting in Fremont Hoy and his son, Clarence being sent to Joliet penitentiary. The indictments charge that the prominent county officials connived to have false testimony presented to insure the conviction of the bankers. Truman Abbott, Ringwood farmer who gave the alleged false testimony, was also indicted for perjury.

"It's politics," asserted Judge Barnes in discussing the case. "The same men are behind the perjury indictments that attempted to get Attorney Lumley and myself disbarred by the State Bar Association recently. At the time the state association, after reviewing our answers to the charge of unethical practice, threw them out and even refused to call witnesses. Judge Barnes and Attorney Lumley are at liberty under $1,000 bond each. Both are asking an immediate trial.

"Shacks" with open sides are preferable to tents as sleeping quarters because the average tent is hard to ventilate. Most tents are less desirable for living quarters than sleeping porches.

Germany's Eagle Meets With Severe Criticism

Berlin, June 11.—(AP)—The federal eagle on the German coat of arms is too ugly to suit the German nationalist Reichstag floor leader, George Schultze, and he wants it supplanted by an eagle "with talons and a sharp beak."

The post-revolution eagle has been roundly criticized ever since its adoption. Some object to it because it looks both right and left; other describe it as a hybrid—a cross between an eagle and a rooster, while still others dub it a "sour and embittered parrot."

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

What particular treatment the world of business needs, a lot of doctors of economy are trying to ascertain. Such a search for the truth is interesting, and the revelations when the truth is found will be valuable. The great difficulty has been that much of the pretended search has been by politicians who would not recognize the truth if they found it, and recognizing it they would not have the courage to declare it.

One of the chief advocates of the McNary-Haugen bill to aid the farmers said one and one-half years ago, that the Adamson law was the beginning of economic troubles. Perhaps it was. We do not know. We suspect that he made the assertion numerous times in Washington and out in the country. We never heard of a politician repeating it or denying it.

Secretary Mellon said high taxes on incomes shortened investments in business, and that economic ills can not be cured until reduction is made. The politicians refused to recognize this as a truth. They try to doctor without admitting the disease.

Almost any merchant will tell you that the automobile has had a bad effect upon the retail business. That is a situation that neither politician nor statesman can correct. Even if he could, who would dare attempt it?

The chances are that the farmer is right about the Adamson law being the starting point of a "vicious circle"; that Secretary Mellon is right about reduction of taxes on business, and that the curbstone economist is right about the automobiles.

Suppose we accept those as remote causes of economic ills and seek the direct causes. That brings several questions. Are commodity prices too high? Are labor schedules too high? Is there unemployment? Is there not enough buying? What are normal business conditions? To be normal must we get back to wartime wages and spending? How much are general conditions affected by the farmer being off the buying market?

The average citizen will say that commodity prices are high enough. Incomes of such a large portion of the buying public have been deflated that they can not meet a commodity price that is held up by labor that did not deflate accordingly, and by high taxes.

Are labor schedules too high? Labor takes in a wide range in that question, which is not intended to apply alone to organized labor. Unorganized labor took a deep cut. The farmer, who has both investment and labor, was wrecked. Organized labor has held most of the gains made during the war. Building trades are receiving higher wages than they received during the war.

If there is unemployment it is local in character, due to local conditions, such as may be found in manufacturing and mining towns.

Is there not enough buying? Large wholesale dealers say there may be enough buying, but there is not enough paying, except to automobile manufacturers and gas stations.

What are normal conditions? Mark Sullivan in a recent Washington letter said the retail business for April was the largest in the history of the country. How, then, shall we return to normalcy if we are economically ill in the face of such returns? Must we reduce or increase to become normal?

If we have these conditions of buying and of labor scales with the farmer practically off the buying market since 1921, what will happen to commodity and labor costs when he comes back?

Summarized, we find the largest retail business in the history of the nation, we find labor almost fully employed, we find the farmer coming slowly back to market for necessities, and we find that people are buying, but not paying.

If we still have economic ills, let the doctors of economy remain at their task. Perhaps George Woodruff, vice chairman of the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago, has given us the key to a hopeful future in an address to a group of bankers. He said:

"The United States is facing a period paralleled several times in history, when commodity prices will be steadily downward. This statement is not given as an alarm. If the results of this condition are not to be bad, the public must understand and anticipate this condition. During the business lives of most of this audience the general trend always has been upward and we must be prepared for a reversal.

"The downward trend probably will affect agriculture the least, because they have had theirs. Luck will mean less, and hard work, intelligence and economy will mean more."

What sort of judges are wanted in this country? Is it coming to be that any one under arrest for violating a law has the privilege of asking for a change of venue from any judge suspected of favoring law enforcement?

Perhaps Chicago's move to withhold Cook county state taxes is intended primarily to inconvenience Governor Small. That it may inconvenience people in the other 101 counties seems to be considered a minor matter.

CHESTER H. ROWELL

A teacher in a small California town was discharged on charges which he claims are false. So he is demanding "vindication." Whether he gets it or not, nobody outside a small circle will know or much care.

Another teacher, in a small Tennessee town, is arrested for violating a state law. The whole world watches, eminent counsel volunteer their services, on both sides, and the town council erects tents and installs a broadcasting system, to accommodate the crowds. What is the difference?

Simply that in the one case an individual is on trial, no different from ten thousand other individuals on trial every day in all the courts of the land, while in the other case the freedom of the human spirit is on trial and the advancement of humanity is the issue.

For this issue, Galileo struggled, persecuted and suffered; martyrs and crusaders died; and centuries of heroic heretics, reformers and revolutionists pioneered the way.

For the imprisonment of the human soul in the shackles of dogma, our ancestors paid the price of a thousand years of stagnation, and the release of those shackles the whole of our modern civilization is founded.

There is no danger of losing it. Light can drive out darkness, but not darkness light. But we are testing whether, in this ostensibly enlightened land, democracy, the rule of the greater number, is the enemy of progress, and is fit to be trusted with the responsibility of civilization.

The Republican National Committee is said to have adopted "stand by the President" as the slogan for the coming campaign. It is a good slogan. But may we add a better one? "By their fruits ye shall know them."

During Roosevelt's term the Congressional Committee held a meeting to plan the campaign. The first half of the meeting was devoted to damning Roosevelt, whom congressmen almost unanimously hated. The second half was devoted to organizing a campaign on the slogan, "Elect us, to stand by the president."

They got by with it, too. The House of Representatives, on domestic policies, get by with it this time. Times will be good, and taxes lower—though not, if the House can help it, more intelligent.

But the Senate, in charge of foreign affairs, must either really stand by the president, or else quit pretending to do so.

THE Dullest Paper in ALL THE WORLD

The Democratic National Committee has a scheme, too. It proposes to establish a national weekly in Washington, the "National Democrat."

If that weekly is half as bad as its prototype, the "National Republican"—it would be beyond human skill to make it worse—God have

So he took his golden pen and wrote, "Dear Lady Katherine."

"I shall tell you the rest of the story about Guido and the Golden Pen of Truth," said Mi O' Mi to the Twins. "Do you wish to hear it?"

"Oh yes, please!" they begged, for they were anxious to know what happened to the goldsmith's son who could do nothing but boast, and who was also very untruthful.

"Well, then," said Mi O' Mi, "when Guido came home from his visit to his uncle, and his parents discovered that instead of being cured he was worse than ever, they were in despair.

"Then along came a fairy who told the goldsmith that she could cure his son. So she took a golden pen he was making and cast a spell over it. Then she returned it saying, 'This is now the Golden Pen of Truth. Give it to your son for his birthday.'

"Guido was not overly pleased with the gift. He had wished for a jeweled buckle and some fine clothes. 'So he grumbled a good bit, but there was nothing he could do.

"However," thought he, "I can at least write to Katherine and tell her that I got the things."

"Katherine," explained Mi O' Mi, "was the name of the maiden he had met when visiting his uncle, and of whom he had grown very fond.

"Katherine will be impressed by so much grandeur," thought Guido, "and she will tell her father, and he will think that I am a noble's son, perhaps, and consent to our marriage."

"So he took his new golden pen and wrote, 'Dear Lady Katherine: I arrived home safely after a long journey. The roads were so muddy that it was all my four stallions could do to pull my coach, and in mercy on those who read it!

Bryan's "Commoner" was bad enough, while it lasted. But it at least had a real human personage behind it, whose heart was right, even if his intellect was almost always wrong.

A back product, devoted to ostracizing from the party all its members who know anything that has happened in this generation has only one redeeming feature. It is sure to be so dull that even loyalty can drive few to read it.

SOLUTION OUGHT TO BE FAIRLY EASY

Two federal boards are complaining of confusion of requests for information, the Inter-State Commerce Commission on the ground of physical impossibility and the Federal Trade Commission in the fear of politics. To which Senator Borah replies with a threat to abolish the trade commission entirely.

It is not necessary to decide who's wrong, Congress or the commissions. Probably both. The point is that there would be no need of any such difficulty, if we would profit by the experience of practically the whole world, as to the best way to make these "requests."

"Interpellation" is not a new or doubtful experiment. It is a tried success, perhaps the most undisputed success, among the mechanisms of free government.

If we had it here, these commissions would be government departments, or bureaus of them, and the heads of these departments would be on the floor of Congress, to answer questions.

If a request for information was beyond physical possibility, or so burdensome to be beyond reason, the department head would say so, and a brief discussion would develop what was really wanted, and the best way to supply it.

If the request was politics, the political head of the department would be there to meet it.

The only objection to adopting this well-tried scheme here is that it has been invented since 1789, and we have been taught to regard it as unpatriotic to know anything that has been found out since then.

LOVE OF TRUTH OBLIGATION OF REAL EDUCATION

Jacksonville, Ill., June 10.—(AP)—Education "involves an obligation" to love the truth, seek the truth and defend the truth, Clifford W. Barnes, president of the Sunday Evening Club of Chicago and former president of Illinois College said in delivering the commencement address at Illinois College here today.

Mr. Barnes asserted that education does not and is not obligated to insure either wealth or fame to those who receive it. Its obligation, he said, "have their center and circumference in that greatest reality in all the universe, that reality we call the truth."

"It will not be an easy thing always to defend the truth," he continued. "You may be called dreamer, radical, mugwump, or some other contemptuous title. Men may attempt to ostracize you as disturbers of the peace, dangerous fanatics, enemies of the established order but education has brought to you the conviction that no question is ever settled until it is settled right."

"The good is everywhere the enemy of the best. Truth calls to you to see that vision of the best and defend it; the vision of homes gay with the laughter of children's voices; of business enterprise successful through fair and honest co-operation; of cities free from corrupting vice and crime; the vision of that brotherhood of man the wide world over, in which neither race nor creed nor color, neither hatred nor misunderstanding, shall serve to separate us from one another or from God."

OBITUARY

HORTON E. GREEN

Horton Buxton Green, a son of John and Diana Green, was born in Johnston, Ticking County, Ohio on the 29th day of October 1852. When he was about one year of age his parents came by wagon to Western Illinois where a homestead was established near the Mississippi River. In that community Mr. Green grew to manhood. School was not easily accessible but by hard work and persistent endeavor he secured a very liberal education for his day.

On the 26th day of September, 1875 he was united in marriage to Miss Florence Greenley, who has been a most devoted helpmate through the passing years. He was converted when he was 22 years of age and the winter following his marriage both he and Mrs. Green united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Very soon thereafter he heard the call to preach but the way did not open at once for him to do so. He entered the business world where some years were spent. However while traveling as a salesman he spent Easter Sunday 1885 in LaCrosse, Wis., and there again heard the call to the Ministry. It was so constant that the next morning he returned to his home and took definite steps to enter the work to which he felt himself to be so clearly called. It was the day of short pastorates. Rev. Green became a part of the early Methodist system and remained loyal to his church until his death. He began his work in the Northwest Iowa Conference where he served many of the most desirable churches. Among those we note Calliope, Ashton, Inwood, Rock Valley, Sutherland, Aurelia and Radcliffe. While stationed at Radcliffe, Iowa a throat disorder compelled him to give up his pulpit for a few years. After a year spent in Missouri he located at Galesburg, Illinois. While in Galesburg he recovered the use of his voice sufficiently to again speak in public and very soon was supplying pulpits in that section with great acceptability. As a Supply he served Smithshire, Cameron and Rio, Illinois, and then transferred his membership to the Central Illinois Conference and was stationed first at Colchester and then at Aquawika, Illinois. After serving these two appointments he asked for a Supernumerary relation and returned to Iowa where he served the church at Sperry four years. Sickness compelled him to retire from the active work at the end for his fourth year at Sperry and he moved to Burlington, Iowa, where he lived two years and where he was greatly beloved and in constant demand for pulpits in the churches of all denominations. Gives Full Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Remarkable Recovery

Wellston, O.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make me strong. I was troubled with my back and sides hurting me till I could not do my work, and whenever I caught cold it made me irregular. Since I have taken the Vegetable Compound my side and back don't bother me and I can do my housework and care for my children now, where before I did not feel like doing anything or going around. After my first child was born about four years ago I saw an advertisement in the paper about the Vegetable Compound. I knew it would help me, but I was afraid to try it because people said it would help you to have children and I knew I was having children fast enough. But I thought if it would help me it would be better to have a whole house full of children and have good health. I became stronger from taking it and my husband says I look like a live woman instead of a dead one. When Spring comes I am going to take your Blood Medicine as I am very thin. I will answer letters from any woman who wishes to ask about your medicine." Mrs. WILLIAM BUTTS, Wellston, Ohio.

Fighting a Crazy Turtle

By NEA Service

New Orleans, La.—You fishermen who spin dubious yarns about the big one that almost pulled you in—hark to this granddaddy of all fish stories.

This deals with Captain L. Boudreaux, his sea-going trawler, the Lillian B., and the 750-pound turtle that swam all the way over from Africa and almost pulled trawler and captain back there with him.

The captain was trawling in 90 fathoms a few miles out in the gulf. Suddenly the net that was dragged astern seemed to go crazy. It had run afoul of the turtle.

"We thought we'd caught an elephant," says Captain Boudreaux. "Turtle goes crazy."

Being game for anything, the captain and his men tried to haul the net in, to see what they had caught.

"It was like trying to haul a live locomotive with ropes," continues the skipper. "That turtle went plumb crazy."

"It fought with its flippers. It fought with its jaws. As long as it was in the water it seemed to have the strength of a steamship."

The turtle was hauled alongside and the fishermen tried to loop a hawser around its flippers.

But the turtle thought otherwise. It stood on its hind legs, it made faces, it lashed and wallowed and rolled.

Not Over Yet.

When Jack and Commissioner Laidlaw left, Benson turned to me with such a worried face that I burst out laughing.

"What would I do, Madame," he said, "if anything should happen to you. Suppose I was overpowered."

"Don't worry, Benson! Nothing will happen to me up here and I won't leave until Mr. Laidlaw and Mr. Prescott return."

"I'll have my dinner early, Benson, so that I may have it with little Jack and finish the book I am reading while waiting."

I heard Benson give his orders from the hall at the foot of the staircase, and looking out I could not help smiling. Puth, that dear old soul was seated on the stairstep and across his knee was one of Jack's shotguns that he uses in duck shooting.

I heard him tell Mary when she came to bring up my dinner that he had double locked and bolted both front and back doors and if they got to "Miss Leslie" or the children it would be over his dead body. This, of course, frightened Mary to death, and she protested that she could not carry the tray upstairs her knees trembled so.

They had quite a long confab and finally the cook was summoned to help Mary, for Benson would not allow himself to be taken from his vantage place in the hallway where he could see both front and back doorways.

Both the cook and Mary were so terror-stricken that they did not want to return to the kitchen. Consequently they seated themselves beside Benson in the hallway on the staircase. It really was funny.

Ruth, for even though, all the while, I was thinking of poor Zoe and Syd and wondering if anything was happening to them, I could not help smiling a little at my protectors.

There was Benson, in his irreproachable English butler uniform, the cook who weighs about 250 pounds, spreading all over the stairway almost obliterating slender Mary in her short skirt and perky cap and apron who was clinging to her.

It seemed to me that I had never heard the doorbell ring so often or the telephone jingle so much as during the next few hours.

At last my own private phone rang in my bedroom, and I hastened to it, to be much relieved by hearing Jack's voice.

"Are you all right? I was worried, dear."

"Perfectly. When are you coming up?"

"We have just finished our business and will be with you very soon."

"I'll have to tell that to Benson or you will probably be shot. He is sitting in the hall with one of your duck guns over his knee."

Jack laughed.

"Blessed old watchdog," he said.

FLAG DAY AT GLENWOOD

A cordial invitation is extended to Dixon citizens who contribute to Glenwood Manual Training School at Glenwood, Illinois, and to all interested friends, to attend the Annual Competitive Military Drill and Flag Day exercises, Saturday afternoon, June 13th, at 2:30 o'clock, daylight saving on the school campus.

Senator Wm. B. McKinley will be speaker of the day, and Lieut. Col. Robert H. Stillman, officer in charge of the R. O. T. C., assisted by officers of the U. S. Army and the R. O. T. C. will receive the Review.

Following the Exhibition Drill by the cadet companies, the 29th annual presentation of a prize flag to the captain of the winning company will be made by Edward B. Butler, who has for twenty eight years been president of the school, and has made the flag presentation for as many consecutive years.

"You tell him that we will ring the bell with one long peal, a short one and then another one."

"Have you found out anything, Jack?"

"Tell you all about it when I come home in about a half an hour." So here I am Ruth, finishing this letter. I do wish that Zoe and Syd were here. I am so worried about them. As for the pearls, I don't much care.

Lovingly, LESLIE.

Motorists will find good roads leading to Glenwood Manual Training School which is located on a 400 acre farm, 24 miles south of Chicago, lying between State and Halstead Streets with the west entrance at 18th and South Halstead Streets. Friends planning to visit the school may make a picnic outing of the day. Refreshments may be procured on the school grounds.

The Glenwood Manual Training School can also be reached by Chicago & Eastern Illinois R. R. to Glenwood (station one mile distant from school); also by the Chicago & Interurban Traction lines from Halstead and 63rd Streets, or by the Illinois Central R. R. to Harvey, thence to Glenwood by trolley.

Glenwood Manual Training School is Chicago's largest single charity—a private non-sectarian philanthropy, caring for needy, dependent boys from every county in the State of Illinois.

The strip is wound on a specially constructed spool which is fitted with lugs to keep the layers of film apart while going through the fixing bath. Special photographic enlarging cameras and devices for correcting imperfections of angle and other defects are included in new mechanical developments which make the air service photographic equipment the most highly developed in the country.

NEXT FEW MONTHS WILL BE HARD ON BABES OF ILLINOIS

State Health Director Issues Appeal for the Little Ones

Springfield—With the arrival of more than 55,000 new babies in Illinois since the first of the year and the anticipation of 35,000 more before the end of August, Dr. Isaac D. Hawkins, state health director, today called attention to the fact that the heat the next few months will be particularly hard on these children. Those who are breast fed will fare better than the others, said the director, but the high temperature will call for special care in all cases. Diarrhea, which causes more fatalities among infants than do measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, typhoid fever and diphtheria combined among all ages, begins to climb rapidly in June, reaching its highest prevalence in August.

"Illinois loses about 3000 young babies annually, or an average of 8 every day because of diarrhea," Dr. Hawkins declared. "Over 50 per cent of this loss occurs in July, August, September and October with August as the fatal month. High temperature both because of its direct and indirect effect is the chief cause of diarrhea."

"Heat makes it difficult to secure and keep food that is wholesome for infants. This is demonstrated by the fact that severe diarrhea is rare among babies who feed principally at the breast while it is very seldom that diarrhea proves fatal among breast fed babies before weaning, just the reverse being true for bottle fed babies."

"Not only is it difficult to secure and keep wholesome food but the heat seems to affect babies directly. The digestive organs, the most vulnerable part of the infant anatomy, are severely taxed, under the best conditions, to provide for the needs of the growing body and when the digestive processes are slowed down because of heat, the system is made the more liable to infections. From the most recent studies it seems that heat has a direct, injurious effect upon the infant but that it is not so much the outdoor temperatures which count as the stagnant heat of apartments in which the child must live day and night."

Springfield is Sorry Guerrilla Weeping Canfuls

Springfield—Strange things sometimes appear in telegrams because of errors in transmission but if the average citizen or business man received a telegram which declared "Springfield sorry Guerrilla weeping canfuls" or "Kallispell song fish singing inside keyhole" he would be more than puzzled. Not so the United States Weather Bureau.
Such seemingly strange statements are clear to Uncle Sam's weather experts because they have the key to transform weird messages into statements which anyone could understand.
Springfield's weeping guerrilla and the deplorable state of affairs surrounding him would simply mean that the temperature at 7 p. m. on the day it was sent was 70 degrees with a southeast wind at a velocity of 10 miles an hour; a maximum temperature during the day of 76; that a thunderstorm occurred in the vicinity between 9 and 11 a. m., but that no rain fell on the station and at the time of sending the weather was clear with a few high clouds moving rapidly from east to west. It also established the barometric pressure at 19.88.
Two hundred such messages are dispatched from as many official weather bureau stations of the department of agriculture at 7 a. m. each day and 7 p. m. each night. From them the weather forecasts are made.

At times the messages have a more human touch. An observer now located at Springfield was stationed at Raleigh, North Carolina, when he sent an official dispatch "Raleigh busy nursing baby," describing the weather in that vicinity. There was a certain poetic touch to the message due to the fact that he had become a proud father only three days before the message was sent.

The forecasting for the United States is done at central points which receive reports from all other stations twice daily, although subordinate stations are authorized to change the forecast regarding their own vicinity if they believe the general district forecast to be inaccurate concerning it.

Growing Intensity in Battle for Canton, China

Washington, June 10—(AP)—Fighting between Cantonese and Yunnanese troops for possession of Canton "continued with growing intensity" on Monday, the state department was advised today in delayed dispatches. The Canton American hospital was hit by "one small shell and several rifle bullets" the advices said, and two American launches en route to the Christian college at Canton "were frequently hit by rifle shots, but the occupants escaped injuries."

Heath weather is fast approaching. Buy a box today. No toilet is complete without it. All druggists carry a supply.

I looked at my comrades. Lord John was standing at gaze with his finger at the trigger of his elephant-gun, his eager hunter's soul shining from his fierce eyes. What could he not give for one such head to place between the two crossed cars above the mantelpiece in his snugger at the Albany! And yet his reason held him in, for all our exploration of the wonders of this unknown land depended upon our presence being concealed from its inhabitants. The two professors were in silent ecstasy. In their excitement they had unconsciously seized each other by the hand, and stood like two little children in the presence of a marvel. Challenger's cheeks flushed up into a sardonic smile, and Summerlee's serene face softened for the moment into wonder and reverence.

"Nunc dimittis!" he cried at last. "What will they say in England of this?"

"My dear Summerlee, I will tell you with great confidence exactly what they will say in England," said Challenger. "They will say that you are an infernal liar and a scientific charlatan, exactly as you and others said of me."

"In the face of photographs?"

"Faked, Summerlee! Clumsily faked!"

"In the face of specimens?"

"Ah, there we may have them! Malone and his filthy Fleet Street crew may be all yelping our praises yet. August the twenty-eighth—the day we saw five live iguanodons in a glade of Maple White Land. Put it down in your diary, my young friend, and send it to your rag."

"And be ready to get the toe-end of the editorial boot in return," said Lord John. "Things look a bit different from the latitude of London, young fellow my lad. There's many a man who never tells his adventures, for he can't hope to be believed. Who's to blame them? For this will seem a bit of a dream to ourselves in a month or two. What did you say they were?"

"Iguanodons," said Summerlee. "You'll find their footprints all over the Hastings sands, in Kent, and in Sussex. The South of England was alive with them when there was plenty of good lush green-stuff to keep them going. Conditions have changed, and the beasts died. Here it seems that the conditions have not changed, and the beasts have lived."

"If ever we get out of this alive, I must have a head with me," said Lord John. "Lord, how some of that Somaliland-Uganda crowd would turn a beautiful pea-green if they saw it! I don't know what you chaps think, but it strikes me that we are on mighty thin ice all this time."

I had the same feeling of mystery and danger around us. In the gloom of the trees there seemed a constant menace and as we looked up into their shadowy foliage vague terrors crept into one's heart. It is true that these monstrous creatures which we had seen were lumbering, inoffensive brutes which were unlikely to hurt anyone, but in this world of wonders what other survivals might there not be—what fierce, active horrors ready to pounce upon us from their lair among the rocks or brushwood? I knew little of prehistoric life, but I had a clear remembrance of one book which I had read in which it spoke of creatures who would live upon our lions and tigers as a cat lives upon mice. What if these also were to be found in the woods of Maple White Land!

It was destined that on this very morning—our first in the new country—we were to find out what strange hazards lay around us. It was a loathsome adventure, and one of which I hate to think. If, as Lord John said, the glade of the iguanodons will remain with us as a dream, then surely the swamp of the pterodactyls will forever be our nightmare. Let me set down exactly what occurred.

We passed very slowly through the woods, partly because Lord Roxton acted as scout before he would let us advance, and partly because at every second step one of our professors would fall, with a cry of wonder, before some flower or insect which presented him with a new type. We may have traveled two or three miles in all, keeping to the right of the line of the stream, when we came upon a considerable opening in the trees. A belt of brushwood led up to a tangle of rocks—the whole plateau was strewn with boulders. We were walking slowly towards these rocks, among bushes which reached over our waists, when we became aware of a strange low gabbling and whistling sound, which filled the air with a constant clamor and appeared to come from some spot immediately before us. Lord John held up his hand as a signal for us to stop, and he made his way swiftly, stooping and running, to the line of rocks. We saw him peep over them and give a gesture of amazement. Then he stood staring as if forgetting us, so utterly entranced was he by what he saw. Finally he waved us to come on, holding up his hand as a signal for caution. His whole bearing made me feel that something wonderful but dangerous lay before us.

Creeping to his side, we looked over the rocks. The place into which we gazed was a pit, and may, in the early days, have been one of the smaller volcanic blow-holes of the plateau. It was bowl-shaped and at the bottom, some hundreds of yards from where we lay, were pools of green-scummed, stagnant water, fringed with bulrushes. It was a weird place in itself, but its occupants made it seem like a scene from the Seven Circles of Dante. The place was a rookery of pterodactyls. There were hundreds of them congregated within view. All the bottom area round the water-edge was alive with their young ones, and with hideous mothers brooding upon their leathery, yellowish eggs. From this crawling, flapping mass of obscene reptilian life came the shocking clamor which filled the air and the mephitic, horrible, musty odor which turned us sick. But above, perched each upon its own stone, tall, gray, and withered, more like dead and dried specimens than actual living creatures, sat the horrible males, absolutely motionless save for the rolling of their red eyes or an occasional snap of their rattrap beaks as a dragonfly went past them. Their huge, membranous wings were closed by folding their fore-arms, so that they sat like gigantic old women, wrapped in hideous web-colored shawls, and with their ferocious heads protruding above them. Large and small, not less than a thousand of these filthy creatures lay in the hollow before us.

Our professors would gladly have stayed there all day, so entranced were they by this opportunity of studying the life of a prehistoric age. They pointed out the fish and the dead birds lying about among the rocks as proving the nature of the food of these creatures, and I heard them congratulating each other on having cleared up the point why the bones of this flying dragon are found in such great numbers in certain well-defined areas, as in the Cambridge Green-sand, since it was now seen that, like penguins, they lived in gregarious fashion.

Finally, however, Challenger, bent upon proving some point which Summerlee had contested, thrust his head over the rock and nearly brought destruction upon us all. In an instant the nearest male gave a shrill, whistling cry, and flapped its twenty-foot span of leathery wings as it soared up into the air. The females and young ones huddled together beside the water, while the whole circle of sentinels rose one after the other and sailed off into the sky. It was a wonderful sight to see at least a hundred creatures of such enormous size and hideous appearance all swooping like swallows with swift, shearing wing-strokes above us; but soon we realized that it was not one on which we could afford to linger. At first the great brutes flew round in a huge ring, as if to make sure what the exact extent of the danger might be. Then, the flight grew lower and the circle narrower, until they were whizzing round and round us, the dry, rustling flap of their huge slate-colored wings filling the air with a volume of sound that made me think of Hendon aerodrome upon a race day. "Make for the wood and keep together," cried Lord John, clubbing his rifle. "The brutes mean mischief!"

FABLES ON HEALTH

Nature has so constructed the house fly to make it an ideal carrier of disease germs.

In the first place, the fly is born and bred in filth. It feeds and lives upon filth. Its body is covered with fine hairs and bristles which act as excellent carryalls for this filth in which it moves.

Even the flies' wings are fringed with hairs and thickly studded with bristles.

Also the fly has six feet, with pads beneath, and great claws, and bristles of various lengths and sizes, which naturally afford safe places for the collection of all kinds of dirt and refuse that the fly is accustomed to visit.

Flies are the most active agents in spreading typhoid fever germs.

The fever is caused by a small germ which lives in the bowels of human beings. Then to take typhoid fever, one must partake of the bowel discharges of a typhoid fever patient.

The fly helps greatly in this by carrying these germs and leaving them on the dining room table.

TO LEGALIZE "TIPS"

Springfield, Ill., June 10—(AP)—Persons who receive tips and not those who employ them will be the beneficiaries of gratuities presented by hotel and restaurant patrons if the Denver bill to regulate contracts between employers and employees as applied to tipping is passed by the House.

It was passed yesterday by the Senate. The measure declares illegal all employment contracts whereby the employer takes the tips received by his employees.

"Members of the tipping trust are using the smiles of pretty girls to deceive the public and put money in their pockets," said Denver. "Under this law the girl who receives an extra fifty cents because the patron likes her smile will be able to keep it, or to go into court and recover, by suing the employer, the amount of tips she has received during any period previous to the suit. Present laws make it impossible for her to do so."

Illinois has an anti-tipping law passed several sessions ago, but it has never been enforced, Denver said.

While cold weather is regarded as more strenuous on physical health, excessive heat results in more fatalities. Last year, for example, 12 deaths were reported as a result of excessive cold while excessive heat was charged with 55. This merely emphasizes the necessity for reasonable care in exposing oneself to overexertion on hot days. In no sense does it suggest avoiding sunshine. Sunshine is the finest kind of a health tonic but like every other good thing it can be overdone.

SIX CONSECUTIVE VICTORIES PLACE REDS AMONG BEST

Pass Pittsburgh and Go In to First Division Wednesday

New York, June 11.—(AP)—Six consecutive victories have enabled Cincinnati to obtain a hold in the first division of the National League pennant race and today the Reds are threatening to pass the Pirates who lead them by only half a game.

The Phillies dropped their third straight game to Cincinnati yesterday 2-2, Crite leading off with a homer for the Reds in the opening inning. Meantime three Pittsburgh hurlers were being pounded by the Braves, who won 6-4.

Rogers Hornsby, Cardinals' manager, went into undisputed leadership among the home run hitters in the majors by connecting for his 16th four bagger of the season, which contributed to the defeat of the Dodgers, 11-2. Bob Meusel of the Yankees is second in line with 15.

Perfect support was given to William Dean who pitched the Giants to a 5-3 victory over the Cubs, allowing 8 singles which he kept well scattered.

Yanks Win in Tenth
In the American League, New York outtrilled the Indians and won 6-5 in the tenth after Cleveland had forged to the front twice. Five homers figured in the contest. Ernie Johnson's blow enabling the Yanks to tie in the ninth. Bob Shawkey, veteran New York twirler, received an automobile from admirers before the game.

The Mack men came from behind and scored 3 runs in the ninth to win from Chicago 9-8. Two pinch hitters, French and Bagwell singled for Philadelphia in the ninth. At Washington the Senators turned back the Tigers 11-7, the champions gathering 17 hits off 3 Detroit pitchers. Cobb and Winfield Detroit made circuit wallop off Coveleskie in the 6th.

St. Louis went on a batting spree against four Red Sox twirlers and won, aided by seven Boston misplays 15-4.

Arrangements are under way by American League officials to have two teams of boys play a nine inning game before each succeeding big league contest in every city of the circuit on "boy's day," the date of which is yet to be fixed. Players of both home and visiting clubs, together with the umpires, will coach the youngsters.

Cy Perkins and "Mickey" Cochrane, catchers and Ira Thomas, coach, also accused, were discharged by the police magistrate.

Winner of Balloon Race Flew 800 Miles

New York, June 11.—(AP)—The possibility of the next revival of the Gordon Bennett international balloon race being held in the United States is seen in dispatches from Brussels stating that the Belgian Aero Club has found burdensome the heavy expense of staging the event for the last four years.

The original Gordon Bennett cup was definitely won by Belgium's premier balloonist, De Muyter, who fulfilled the condition of the donor by putting his country in first place three times in a row.

This year's race, which has just been concluded with another Belgian victory, was in the form of a revival with the idea of keeping up the series. Veenstra, flying the balloon Prince Leopold, was the winner. He and his companion Quersin, made a remarkable flight, covering more than 800 miles from the starting field in Brussels and landing at Cape Torinana, about 50 miles from Corunna, Spain.

De Muyter was given second place and Valle of Italy, third. The Good-year III piloted by Wade T. Van Orman, was not classified, being one of the three balloons to come down at sea. The other American entry, the S-14, piloted by Lieutenants Flood and McCormick, was given fourteenth place or next to last.

No more than 100,000 seals can be taken from Behring Strait in one year, according to government officers.

At a triple wedding to be solemnized June 25, at Rock Island, Ill., three sisters, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Young will be united in marriage. Ellen (top picture) will wed Ogden E. Johnson of Wausau, Wis.; Harriet (center picture) will wed G. W. Wickstrom, Stanton, Ia., and Eunice (below) will wed O. C. Cobb of LaFollet, Wis. All three of the girls and two of the young men are graduates of Augustana College.

Sick children and those who are under par in health should go to a special health camp and not to one designed for normal healthy boys and girls. The program arranged for the robust is too strenuous for the undernourished, for example, and those who tend toward tuberculosis. There are plenty of summer camps designed to meet the special needs of these children.

Origin of "Two Bits" Found in Ancient Records

Springfield — (AP)—Blue laws of early Illinois were enforced by fines expressed in terms of "bits," from which the phrase "two bits" and "six bits" now current in slang have come down to us, according to early Sangamon county court records uncovered by the Illinois State Historical society.

That they had "scofflaws" a century ago just as they have today is evidenced by an entry on the court records of the case of a man convicted of Sabbath breaking. The record read: "Alexander Gibson, found guilty of Sabbath breaking, and fined 12½ cents by Edw. Robinson, J. P. Jan. 29, 1832." The fine at that time was expressed as "one bit."

"J. C. Thompson, veteran lawyer and educator in the department of public instruction in commenting on the record said the "bits" then was a common monetary expression among all classes.

The expressions "Two Bits," "Four Bits," and "Six Bits" possessed a certain amount of dignity in these days which has since been lost," he said. "Six bits, or seventy-five cents, was the regular daily wage for boys 'drapping' corn. By 'drapping' corn, they meant planting or dropping the kernels in the hills.

"There was no coin to represent 'one bit' so they took a two-bit piece or what we call a quarter and chopped it in two pieces with a chisel making two 'one-bit' pieces. These were called 'sharp shins' because of the rough jagged edges left by the chisel.

"When I first came in off my father's farm to seek my fortune as a school teacher, the smart young men about town rebuked my use of the terms 'two bits' and 'six bits.' But the terms were in common use and every one understood what was meant by them.

"The 'bit' was originally called the 'Spanish bit' because it took eight of them to make up a Spanish milled dollar. This dollar was legal tender in the early days before the United States plucked up courage enough to coin its own money."

The old Sangamon court record was discovered and preserved when found among the old rubbish in the old state house which now is the Sangamon county court house.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:

GLORIA GORDON, beautiful flapper, marries DICK GREGORY, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes . . . but no work or children.

She refuses pointblank to do her own housework, and hires a maid. But Dick has to let the maid go, because he can't afford her wages. Gloria had swamped him with debts for her clothes and a new automobile.

She becomes infatuated with an out-of-work actor, STANLEY WAYBURN. When he comes town to go to New York, she follows him. But he spurns her. Then she tries to find a job as a chorus girl and fails. It is then that Gloria begins to realize how lonely she is for Dick. But she is afraid to go home.

At last, however, she does go. Dick takes her back, but not as his wife. Gloria begins to wonder if he is in love with his secretary, SUSAN BRIGGS. While Dick is out late one night, the house is robbed. Gloria is sure that Dick spent the evening with Miss Briggs. But next morning she learns that he was at the home of DR. JOHN SEYMOUR, who had killed himself because of his wife's love affair with JIM CAREWE.

The breach between Gloria and Dick widens. She learns that Miss Briggs is in love with Dick and begs him to discharge her. He refuses. Finally Gloria decides to leave Dick. She tells him she's done her best to win him back to her, but is now "through."

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

THE minute Gloria told Dick she was through with him she was sorry. She was not through with him. She was just beginning to be interested in him as she had never been before in all her life.

Hoping that he wouldn't take her at her word, she found herself breathlessly waiting for his answer it came.

"All right, Gloria," he said. "And this time, it's for good. Remember No coming back!"

Gloria couldn't speak. With her little head held high, she marched past him into the kitchen.

The steak was burning in the frying pan. Gloria took it from the stove, and put it away in the ice box, steaming hot as it was. She tossed the bread tray with the bread on it, back into its box. The apparatus and salad went into the garbage.

"If I can't be his wife, I won't be his cook . . . that's a cinch!" she thought to herself.

She stood at the screen door looking out into the yard. There was a strong smell of boiling fruit in the air. Mrs. Donberg, next door neighbor, was responsible . . . it was the season for preserving.

Suddenly Gloria saw the beauty of the common lot . . . of a woman working for a man, and him for her. Of their children. And their little homes and backyard gardens.

It was a precious thing the every day kind of love that Dick had once offered her. And that she hadn't had the wit to accept!

She scolded her eyes, and ran down her cheeks.

Blinded by them, she felt her way upstairs and into her own room. She packed her over-night bag.

DICK was waiting for her in the hall when she came down stairs. She looked up at him with red-rimmed, swollen eyes.

"I'll come back tomorrow to pack my trunks," she said. "I'm going home to Mother's now."

"No," he objected. "I'm not going to let you run crying down the street to night. . . . We won't give neighbors any more to gossip about than we have to! You go upstairs to bed, now. And we'll talk things over tomorrow morning."

"Talk what over?" Gloria asked. She drew a long sobbing breath.

"There are a good many things we've got to discuss," Dick said. "Selling the house, and the furniture . . . things of that kind." Selling the house! And the furniture, too! . . . Ah, Dick must mean business then! He really must be through with her . . . eager to rid himself of her!

She looked around her at the bright, cheerful house with its cream-colored walls, its blue rugs and the yellow curtains that looked as if sunshine were always pouring through them.

"I—I don't want to go away from my house!" she said in a whisper. She couldn't trust her treacherous voice.

"Oh, rats!" Dick exclaimed. "You've never stayed in this house long enough to care for it. Six months from now you'll have forgotten you ever lived in it . . . with me!"

Gloria had no answer to that. She went back up the stairs with lagging steps.

She locked herself in her room and went to sleep. When Dick looked down on her door in the morning she did not get up.

Her nerves shook to the sound of the front door closing behind him . . . to the purr of the little car rolling out of the yard.

And when it had died away in the distance, she got up and dressed slowly and uncertainly.

MRS. GORDON was washing the breakfast dishes when Gloria opened the screen door that led into the clean, sunlit kitchen from the back porch.

"Well, forewarned! Where are you going, bag and baggage?" She looked down dubiously at the over night bag Gloria carried.

Gloria set her bag down on the well scrubbed floor.

"Mother!" she cried. "I've come home! I've left Dick!"

Her mother laid her dish towel down on the drain board.

"Tell me," she said "did you leave Dick when you went to New York a few weeks ago? Everybody said you did. . . . I couldn't believe it. I was sure you'd have told me if you were separating. . . . But then girls don't tell their mothers things the way they used to when I was young. I suppose I'd be the last one to hear it if you ever did leave him."

Gloria shook her head with exasperation.

"I'm telling you right now that I have left him!" she said. "I'm never going back to him! I've come home to stay here with you and Dad, if you'll let me."

Mrs. Gordon took off her glasses. "I can't see a thing with those things on," she said. "You go into the living room and lie down, I'm going to make you some tea. You look words: 'My God, My God, why has thou forsaken me.'"

This furnished the inspiration for "Eli, Eli."

Sinder set forth that the song was worth at least $500,000 and that he had received only $78. He is 66 years old.

peaked. . . . Gloria took her bag upstairs to the little room that had been hers for so many years of her life. It was beautifully clean, but depressing in its shabbiness.

She thought of her room at home with its soft, brilliant cushions its haise longue and the taffeta that draped the bed and windows.

With a heart like lead, she went downstairs to the living room table stood a tea tray.

MRS. GORDON came in from the kitchen with a plate of hot toast in her hands.

"You eat some of this toast that I've made for you, too," she said. "And then tell me how you happened to leave Dick?"

"There isn't much to tell. He said he was through with me. . . . So what could I do but pack my bag and get out?" Gloria asked.

Mrs. Gordon sat down in her old armchair. "Now, Gloria, that's not the truth," she said bluntly. "I know Dick too well to believe that tale."

You probably told him you were through with him. Didn't you?"

Gloria thought, for a moment. "Yes, I believe I did," she said. The whole affair was blurred in her mind by her own unhappiness.

"Well, then," her mother went on, "you've got to go back to Dick. Marriage isn't like a hat that you can wear for a while, and then throw away for a new one. . . ."

"I don't want a new one," Gloria answered miserably. "I don't ever want to see a man again!"

She slipped to the floor and laid her head on her mother's knees.

"Nonsense!" Mrs. Gordon said. "You and Dick have just had some sort of a little spat or other. . . . You know, you're not an easy person to live with, Gloria! You fly up at nothing. . . . I often say to your Dad, 'Gloria isn't like either of us. She must take after old Aunt Fanny!' She had a tongue if ever a woman did!"

"I know you'd say it was my fault!"

If Dick and I ever had a bust-up," Gloria answered resentfully. "Everybody thinks Dick's perfect. . . ."

"No, he's not perfect. But he's the sort of man I should have liked to have had for a son. . . . If the good Lord had seen fit to send me one," her mother went on. "Dick's a pretty fine young fellow, Gloria. And you're going to regret it if you leave him!"

Gloria shook her head. But she knew that her mother was right. She was regretting it, already.

"What you ought to do is to go straight back home, and settle down to make Dick some sort of a wife!" Mrs. Gordon said suddenly. "I suppose it's partly my fault that you don't know how to cook or take care of a house. . . . that you have to have a maid. I should have made you go into the kitchen and work right along with me, when you were engaged to Dick." "I haven't any maid. Dick let the housemaid go," Gloria answered. "I've been doing my own housework since I came back from New York. . . ."

"I don't ever want to see a man again!"

"Ah, hah! So that's it! I knew there was a nigger in the woodpile somewhere!" her mother exclaimed. "You don't like to do housework, and you've been quarreling with Dick about it."

"I have not!" Gloria jumped up from the floor. "He's in love with his stenographer, if you want to know! And he treats me as if I were his old maid aunt!"

Placidly Mrs. Gordon picked up the tray of dishes and went out into the kitchen with it.

"Oh, I guess it's not as bad as all that," she said comfortingly. "A man doesn't wait till he's thirty to marry the wrong woman."

Gloria stood as silent as a statue. In her ears she could hear her own voice repeating the words after the minister, as she had stood in that very room on her wedding day. . . .

"For better, for worse, for richer, for poorer . . . till death do us part."

Ab, there were other things that parted two people who had once loved each other . . . misanthropic standings, pettiness. . . .

"All right, I'll go home!" Gloria said suddenly. "By jinks, I'll make things turn out the way I want them to! If it kills me!"

Her mother laughed at her fierceness. "It won't kill you," she said. "It'll be the saving of you. Baby. You haven't been a real wife yet to Dick. You've just been playing at it."

ENROLLMENT AT ILLINOIS U. IS MORE THAN 12,000

Unusually Big Year in University Ends Next Week

Urbana.—More than twelve thousand resident students were enrolled in the University of Illinois during the fiscal year, which closes with the commencement exercises next week. Unlike many other institutions, Illinois does not have "correspondence" or "extension courses" enrollment which is counted in the registration figures. Only those students who were in regular attendance during the fall, winter, and summer sessions, are counted.

With an exact total of 12,092 for the year, 1,044 attended the medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy branches of the university, which are located at Chicago. Of these, 56 were women. The remaining 11,048 attended the classes held at Urbana-Champaign.

Is Today Your Birth Anniversary?

THURSDAY, JUNE 11—The astral influences governing persons born this day hold forth an omen of uncertain and unfavorable conditions in many matters, particularly for those in the employment of others. Because of this all tendency to impetuosity and strife should be suppressed, for the result only will be detrimental to you. Your temper is not as fiery in your office as in your home, but you must use more will power to curb it there. The chances are that you will marry a person whose temperament is just the opposite of yours. You will suffer several financial setbacks, but you can overcome these if you keep up your courage.

Some motorists depend upon the reputation of the tire dealer.

Others depend entirely upon the reputation of the tire itself.

We suggest that you look to both, for the one is exactly as important as the other.

Fri., Sat.—RICHARD DIX in "THE SHOCK PUNCH."

You all like this big, husky, handsome, regular guy, and in this one he'll tickle your funny-bone and does some high class shock-punch fighting with Walter Long and "Gunboat" Smith, the old war horse of the prize ring. Frances Howard is the girl and she's a very nifty stick of dimpled dynamite in this picture and you are going to crave her company very much.
